

CENTER for COMMUNICATION HEARING & DEAFNESS

ANNUAL REPORT 2010

Celebrating 85 Years of Service

Communication leads to community, that is, to understanding, intimacy and mutual valuing.

—Rollo May

From its humble roots as a small deaf and hard of hearing support group and social organization, the Center now impacts the lives of more than 6,000 people each year through direct services and outreach. As Wisconsin's trusted hearing and speech resource, the Center continues to build on its commitment to ensuring equal access to language, communication and education for all members of the community. Celebrating 85 years of success...and looking ahead to an even more successful future.

The Center for Communication, Hearing & Deafness (CCHD) is about making communication possible...

...and giving children, families and adults the tools and caring support they need to live life to its fullest potential.

Communication shapes every facet of our lives. When we are able to communicate with others we are able to have meaningful relationships, learn from one another, express our thoughts and participate in our community.

Teaching, empowering, and promoting respect for each others' differences...

...this is the Center for Communication, Hearing & Deafness.

❧ 2010 Notable Accomplishments ❧

The Center changed its name from the Center for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing in order to broaden the agency's mission so it can better respond to the changing needs and requirements in our community.

More than 125 children and their families received services through the Center's Birth to Three Program, which helps children develop critical language and literacy skills.

UniversaLink, the Center's assistive technology program, served approximately 3,000 people in need of devices to help them hear better and live more independently.

The Center celebrated the opening of Milwaukee County's first Deaf Adult Group Homes for adults who use sign language and have developmental or physical disabilities.

Twelve free 8-week speechreading and communication strategies classes were completed throughout SE Wisconsin for adults with hearing loss, thanks to a $10,000 grant received from the Home Instead Senior Care Foundation.

The Center launched a new service, Video Remote Interpreting (VRI), which uses video conferencing technology and a high-speed internet connection to provide long distance sign language interpreting services for individuals who are Deaf.

The Center for Communication Hearing & Deafness serves all ages and all degrees of hearing loss.

For the past 85 years, the Center has been a trusted resource in Wisconsin, and the need for its services is greater than ever. As a private non-profit agency, CCHD relies heavily on the generosity of private donors, businesses and foundations to help support its core programs to help children develop language and literacy skills and to ensure that adults with hearing loss have tools they need to live independent, active lives. The Center strives to be a good steward of the funds it raises to fill the gap in funding — 89 cents of every dollar raised goes toward direct services.

A heartfelt thank you to those who generously donated in 2010 to support the Center's mission.
